

QUANTEM AVIATION SERVICES EXPANDS FREIGHTER RAMP HANDLING WITH CATHAY PACIFIC AT PORTLAND INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

Manchester, NH - Quantem Aviation Services (Quantem) is pleased to announce that Cathay Pacific Airways has appointed Quantem Aviation Services as their ramp handling provider at Portland International Airport (PDX). The launch of inaugural operations for Cathay's new twice weekly B747-8F scheduled service took place on November 3, 2016.

The new Portland service operates two weekly flights from Hong Kong to North America, including stops in Portland, Anchorage and Los Angeles. This service to Portland marks the airline's 18th cargo station in the Americas. This additional service also expands the existing relationship between the two companies - Quantem Aviation Services has been providing cargo warehouse services to Cathay Pacific at Boston's Logan Airport since May, 2015. Quantem Aviation Services has a strong presence at the Portland International Airport, where they provide ground handling services to UPS, handling an average of five wide-body aircraft and 32 feeder aircraft daily.

"We are delighted to have been selected by Cathay Pacific for this important contract," said Robin Ward, Vice President, Sales and Operations for Quantem Aviation Services. She adds, "At Quantem, we build long-term relationships with our business partners by offering flexibility and a team who is dedicated to meeting or exceeding our customers' needs. Our focus on providing quality ground handling and passenger services has made Quantem Aviation Services the vendor of choice for our customers."
